Quantum Biofeedback Therapy

Biofeedback

Each organ, tissue, and cell in our body has a distinct frequency which is made possible by the rotation of atoms in the cells. When instructions are sent to the body from the brain they use the spinal cord to send those instructions using nerves and other molecular aids. As long as the connection between the brain and the spine is intact, biofeedback systems can use the brain to listen in and pick up the information. Bio-electrical activity of brain neurons is amplified so signals which are practically undetectable by statistical fluctuations, can not only be detected but also isolated and decoded thanks to biofeedback systems.

Bioresonance

Bioresonance is a phenomenon whereby all living organisms and their components emit measurable electromagnetic waves, the frequency of which is dependent on their physiological state. In holistic terms, the body is construed as a system of energy and its cells, organs, and tissues which are subject to changes from external energy sources, noxious stimuli or challenges of various pathogens, allergens, chemicals, and bio-chemicals. In the altered or diseased state, this normal resonance energy is usually lower than in the normal state.

Quantum Biofeedback Therapy is a naturopathic practice that measures the body's energetic components and helps detect and measure both chemical and physiological imbalances caused by a prolonged period of stress from a variety of sources. Much of the adult population suffers from a variety of adverse effects of stress such as insomnia, anxiety, depression, reduced abilities and decision-making skills, weight gain and more. It usually starts gradually and then becomes a chronic problem defying easy solutions and can be extremely frustrating and even debilitating.

Enter Quantum Biofeedback Therapy to the rescue. Quantum Biofeedback Therapy is a procedure that promotes healing of the body and mind by mildly and non-invasively re-balancing the electromagnetic energy (bioresonance) levels to the normal state. It is made possible by a Biofeedback machine that measures and scans the body organs and tissues for their Bioresonance energy levels to determine the extent of stress damage, and then rebalances and harmonizes the bioresonance energy imbalances with externally supplied electromagnetic waves. By restoring and harmonizing the natural bioresonance frequencies, Quantum Biofeedback Therapy allows the body to heal naturally without any adverse effects.

Quantum Biofeedback is a safe and non-invasive therapy which when combined with proper nutrition, behavioral modification, and healthy lifestyle changes can bring a pronounced and long lasting relief to patients suffering from long-term effects of stress.

Benefits

- It is non-invasive.
- It does not use chemicals, bio-chemicals or harsh drugs that can cause many side effects.
- It is highly effective when used as an adjunct to your naturopathic and nutritional practices
- Enhances self-awareness and control and promotes a general sense of wellbeing

What to Expect

Your first appointment consists of a full body scan and analysis of the scan report. A recommended treatment plan will be discussed between you and our practitioner and then the therapy begins. Sit back and relax while your body is energized and your frequencies are painlessly and effortlessly balanced.

Follow up appointments continue with the pre-determined treatment plan as discussed while offering comparisons to track your progress.

Every body is different and therefore results vary between clients. We will purposely customize a plan specific to you.
